Course Introduction

The Security Risk Management Consultants Course (SRMC™) has been designed by Leading Authorities in Security, Risk, Crisis and Disaster Management. Experts from various branches of UK Government, private sector and Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs) have collaborated to design and deliver this unique course.

The SRMC™ is a 12-day intensive course, designed with the security industry in mind, with a focus on understanding its place in a wider Enterprise Risk Management context. The course is now fully residential and runs from the Emergency Planning College (EPC), Easingwold, York. The EPC is the UK’s leading centre for organisational resilience. Students will leave the course with a broad and comprehensive understanding of risk management and its associated practices, significantly enhancing your career prospects.

As an example, former students have gone on to secure senior positions within the Big Four Consultancies, Energy and Extractives, Aviation, Defence, Media companies and leading Risk Management organisations. There are several certification and development options available including: Chartered International Institute of Security & Crisis Management (CIISCM), the Level 5 City & Guilds accreditation, Level 6 Security Risk Management Consultants, 60 credits towards an MBA (following a Risk and Resilience pathway), 60 credits towards MSc in Risk Management or Organisational Resilience plus further endorsed certifications and CPD credits.

“The course gives an in depth understanding of security risk issues and how to tackle them, imparting life-long skills that can be employed in a wide range of situations both inside the forces and in future civilian employment. The quality of the lecturers is excellent, from post-graduate level academics to published authors and top end security professionals. Students quickly improve their verbal presentations, report writing and planning skills through practical exercises under pressure. The SRMC also provides several qualifications recognised in the security sector and helps individuals develop their professional networks.”

- Colonel and former Head of Security, British Army

“The course was first rate, covering a wide range of topics and attracting industry leaders to lecture and deliver workshops, vastly improving the skills, knowledge and mindset of all attendees. The confidence I have gained over the 12 days has been utterly reassuring, transferring the wide ranging skills and experiences the Royal Marines has given me into the Security and Risk Management sector.”
- (Joe, Serving Royal Marine in resettlement)

“After a lot of research into several courses and speaking to security professionals it was clear that the Frontier Risks SRMC course was the best fit for me. A blended mix of vocational training and experienced lecturers was a perfect environment for classroom learning. It opened my eyes to a whole new world and paths to follow.”
- (Michael, Security Consultant)

“Having left the military and going straight into private security sector abroad it was the perfect transitional course to take on the commercial sector back home. It gave me the ability to Chuck all my experience in a bag with all the new knowledge and skills of the SRMC course, the result being a much more rounded set of tools and the confidence to go with them.”
- (Steve, Security Manager, Iraq)

“This course offers the perfect pathway to transferring the practical into the academic in a language and manner that befits its audience. I can’t recommend this course enough, since completing the 2 week classroom phase, I have had two formal interviews and offers of full time employment solely down to attending the Frontier Risk SRMC course.”
- (UKSF operator in resettlement)

“Before doing the course, I did a lot of research into other courses that were available. I decided that Frontier Risks provided a varied course content, the qualifications with the option to progress further onto a Masters level. I booked a place on the SRMC course, and by attending one of their taster days, it just confirmed that I had made the right decision.”
- (Shelagh, Serving Army on resettlement)
